A Farmer at Edom, Texas, Says:

"We are six in family. We live in a place where we are subject to violent Colds and Lung Troubles. I have used German Syrup for six years successfully for Sore Throat, Cough, Cold, Hoarseness, Pains in the Chest and Lungs, and spitting-up of Blood. I have tried many different kinds of cough Syrups in my time, but let me say to anyone wanting such a medicine—German Syrup is the best. That has been my experience. If you use it once, you will go back to it whenever you need it. It gives total relief and is a quick cure. My advice to everyone suffering with Lung Troubles is—Try it. You will soon be convinced. In all the families where your German Syrup is used we have no trouble with the Lungs at all. It is the medicine for this country."

A DETECTIVE'S STORY.

How the Finding of a Visiting Card Led to an Important Arrest.

Two men sat in a secluded corner of the Ebbitt House lobby and enjoyed a quiet chat over their after dinner cigars. That was not a remarkable fact, but one of the men is one of the best known members in his profession, and if he were inclined to tell a history of his interesting experience it would fill volumes. The smooth shaven gentleman with the quiet demeanor is one of the keenest of criminal catchers, G. M. Fletcher, of Chicago. Mr. Fletcher related what he calls the strangest and luckiest piece of trailing in his life, and the end of the trail was in Washington, "although," says Mr. Fletcher, "it was only luck on my part that it did."

Fifteen years ago a wealthy old farmer named Wilson was found murdered just outside his house, near Evanston, Ill. The old man had that day concluded the sale of a piece of property, and was returning with nearly $3,000 in his pocket, as it was growing dark, the cash having been paid over after banking hours in Evanston, and Wilson incautiously allowed the remark to drop that he wished he had not made the sale until next day.

He did not like the idea of carrying so much wealth to his home, five miles distant. These facts, besides the murder itself, and the knowledge that a notorious gambler named Edmondson had overheard the speech, were all the clue offered the detectives, who were set to work on the case with a reward of $3,000, held out as an inducement for running down the murderer or murderers. Months passed, but no further trace of the gambler who was suspected could be found anywhere.

During the early spring of 1877 Fletcher was sent east on a mission by the agency of which he is a member, and in the course of his trip concluded to spend a day or two in Washington before returning to the Lake City. While passing up Pennsylvania avenue, near Sixth street, with a friend, his attention was attracted to a small visiting card, which, after the manner of his profession, he picked up and examined.

"I wasn't thinking of business just then," said Mr. Fletcher, "but I suppose instinct led me to do as I did, and what do you suppose that pasteboard contained? The autograph of the very man I had been looking for for months. Of course the signature was not familiar to me, but the first thought to suggest itself was, 'How did the card get there?' and I could answer it only one way—Edmondson had dropped it—but how did he happen to retain the same name if he was guilty, unless he did not fear detection?

"Well, to cut a long story short, I determined to stay in Washington awhile and see what could be seen. I found out the most notable houses where a gambler of his type would be likely to hold forth, and after ten days' shadowing I found him in an old frame house on Four-and-a-Half street. Edmondson came with me without a requisition, and made no fight. In fact, he was tired of leading a hunted life and confessed the crime. He said he always had an idea that the visiting card would prove his doom, but somehow or other he could not destroy it, and knew at once when he missed it from his case that it would be a clew, for he had been traveling under an assumed name since the murder. The card was the last link of his former life.

"Edmondson was hanged a few months later, and that ended the most curious episode in my twenty-five years' experience as a detective."—Washington Post.

Something Wrong.

"Well," said the "brute" to his wife as he took his place at the breakfast table, "who are the new neighbors next door?"

"Why, how should I know?" answered the wife.

"Don't you know their name?"

"Of course not."

"Are they wealthy?"

"I'm sure I don't know."

"The man an old skinflint?"

"I don't know,"

"His wife extravagant?"

"You will have to ask some one else."

"Any daughters? And are they proud and stuck up?"

"Why, Harry? I don't know."

"Anything mysterious about them? A secret connected with the family?"

"I don't know anything about them."

"What! You don't?"

"No."

"They have been here twenty-four hours—I'll send the doctor up as I go down town."

"What are you going to send the doctor up for?"

"Something must be the matter with you. That family has lived next to us for one whole day and you don't know the first thing about them yet. You need attending to."

And then he buried himself in his paper.—Philadelphia Press.

Good Authority.

Congressmen "before the war" were somewhat accustomed to the exchange of unparliamentary language, but perhaps no American legislators were ever so practiced in vituperation as the members of the much lamented, vanished Irish parliament on College Green. Somehow they contrived to keep on friendly private terms while treating one another to most picturesque abuse.

On one occasion a member, pointing a quivering finger across the house at his opponent, one Thaddy Burke, concluded with these words:

"And every mimber of the honorable gintleman's familee is benayth contimpt—from the white livered hound that is shivering on the flure to the painted hag that is grinning in the gallery."

"How did you know his sister was in the gallery?" whispered a comrade as the orator sat down.

"Sure, didn't Thaddy himself tell me she was going to be prisint when we were coming down to the house afther dinner?"—Youth's Companion.

Found a Skull in a Bedpost.

A ghastly find was made a few days ago by an upholsterer named Leak, of Eau Claire, Wis. It was that of a skull which had been concealed in a bedpost, or, to be accurate, in a large hollow wooden ball placed for ornament on top of the post. The bed to which this belonged was one of a lot of furniture recently purchased by Leak in Racine, and is a magnificent old piece of mahogany of the Queen Anne style, and is, in all probability, very old, so that it is impossible to arrive at any conclusion as to how long the skull has been concealed in it.

Leak, perceiving the ball to be rather loose, for the purpose of tightening examined it, and discovered that it was screwed on and was hollow. He removed it, and to his horror found that the cavity was occupied by a grinning skull, which was all the more awe inspiring from the discovery subsequently made that through the temple had been driven a large nail or spike, which still remained piercing it nearly through to the other temple, and which, though incrusted with rust, still shows specks of long dried blood, or what is presumably such.

Whether the skull is that of a man or woman is of course impossible to tell, but it is unmistakably human and that of a person of considerable intellectual development, as is evidenced by the facial angle. Leak has exerted himself to learn something of the history of the bed, but has not been able to do so. He purchased it from a secondhand dealer, who in turn bought it in Chicago from a woman who declares that she knows nothing of it except that her mother, now deceased, purchased it at an auction sale, but this occurring when she was a little child, she does not recollect where the sale was held.—Cor. Philadelphia Press.

Skeletons with Tails.

A discovery which will prove of immense interest to ethnologists has been made at the little hamlet of Sinaloa, Mexico, while breaking ground for a large coffee plantation which is being established by an English syndicate.

The find consists of thousands of skeletons either of large apes or of prehistoric human beings of a very low order. If the remains are of apes they were of gigantic size and of a variety no longer extant, while if they are of men the men were provided with distinct caudal appendages, very thick and short, and curled up like a squirrel's. That they are the skeletons of apes can hardly be doubted, judging from the arms, which reached nearly a foot below the knee, and the thumbs which are also abnormally long and curved with exceedingly sharp and powerful nails.

The feet, too, show that they were intended for climbing rather than walking, and are also provided with claws and prehensile toes of unusual length. It is probable that the large number of skeletons found is due to a battle between two bands of the animals having taken place at this spot, which is further proved by the number of broken skulls and other bones among them and the fact that several of the skeletons were found in a deadly embrace.

No weapons, however, were discovered, but as these were probably of wood they have perished in the course of time.—Philadelphia Times.

Revived By the Watermelon.

A singular story comes from St. Elmo. On Thursday while the baggage team and wagon that runs to Portersville was on the road some distance from the station, a thunderstorm arose. Lightning struck a tree near the road, splitting it in two. The same bolt jumped to the wagon, knocked down the mule and the boy driver. The boy, in falling, struck his head on a Georgia watermelon, the force of the fall breaking the melon, and the boy's head sinking into the cavity in the melon. The mule lay stunned some minutes, and, recovering, got up and resumed his way. The boy having fortunately fallen with his head into the melon, the water in it had the effect of reviving him, and he shortly regained consciousness. The only damage to the wagon was a split spoke.—Mobile (Ala.) Register.

Domesticated Partridges.

Miss Fannie Newman, living near Lexington, has a genuine curiosity in the shape of six partridges, which are as tame and docile as possible. Some time ago her brother in plowing a field came across a nest containing a number of partridge eggs, and gave them to his sister, who placed them under a hen, and in due time they were hatched out. A motherly little bantam hen has taken the birds under her wing, and, from the fuss and noise she makes over them, seems to take delight in her downy charges. It is a pretty sight to see them together.—Carrollton (Mo.) Democrat.

A Fatal Seidlitz Powder.

Mrs. August Lenk died suddenly yesterday. She had been suffering from puerperal fever. She took a seidlitz powder, and twenty minutes later died. It was first thought that there were poisonous ingredients in the powder, but Coroner Cook found that death resulted from natural causes. The expansion of the gas had prevented proper action of the heart. It is said that cases of this kind are not infrequent with people of feeble heart action.—Utica Observer.

Ice Melting Away.

Residents of the city of Brewer are enjoying lots of cold comfort these hot days. Several icehouses that were put up on speculation failed to bring fortunes, or even any cash, to their owners, and have been torn down or allowed to tumble to pieces. The ice has been left to melt in the sun or to be carried away by any one who has wanted it, and many have availed themselves of the privilege.—Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

Is Life Worth Living?

That depends upon the Liver. If the Liver is inactive the whole system is out of order—the breath is bad, digestion poor, head dull or aching, energy and hopefulness gone, the spirit is depressed, a heavy weight exists after eating, with general despondency and the blues. The Liver is the housekeeper of the health; and a harmless, simple remedy that acts like Nature, does not constipate afterwards or require constant taking, does not interfere with business or pleasure during its use, makes Simmons Liver Regulator a medical perfection.

I have tested its virtues personally, and know that for Dyspepsia, Biliousness and Throbbing Headache, it is the best medicine the world ever saw. Have tried forty other remedies before Simmons Liver Regulator, and none of them gave more than temporary relief, but the Regulator not only relieved but cured.

WHY NOT PROSECUTE CASHIN?

Attorney General Miller has advised United States Attorney Garter of California that the Newberger, Reiss & Co. smuggling case has been compromised and he will suspend action on the indictment against Bernard Reiss until he receives further instructions. Nothing has been done toward prosecuting Customs Officer Cashin, who conspired with the importers to defraud the revenue. It seems to be no offense in the eyes of the administration for a partisan official, paid to perform specific duties and sworn to protect the interests of the Government, to conspire with importers to admit high priced woolen goods as cheap cottons, and not only defraud the revenue, but irreparable injure the business of honest merchants who pay the full duty imposed by law on such goods.

It is claimed by its organs that the present administration is honest, though the scandals in some of the departments would lead people to think otherwise, but if it is, why is it that Deputy Collector of Customs Cashin of San Francisco is not prosecuted? Is it not an offense, punishable by fine and imprisonment or by both, for a customs officer to enter into a conspiracy with importers to smuggle goods through the custom house? If it is, why not prosecute Cashin, a salaried officer of the Government, as well as Reiss or Newberger? If it is an offense for merchants to attempt to evade the payment of import duties on goods and wares, it ought to be a crime for the officials paid by the Government to protect the interests of the public to aid and assist the smugglers. If an official detected in rascality can escape punishment by resigning, the law ought to be amended so that he can be held accountable.

DEMANDING DAMAGES.

When Norcross, the Boston dynamiter, was in Russell Sage's office in New York City demanding a share of the millionaire's money or his life, W. B. Laidlaw, a broker's clerk, appeared on the scene. Sage grabbed the unsuspecting clerk and used him as a shield, keeping him between himself and the lunatic while retreating toward his private office. When the bomb exploded Laidlaw was frightfully injured, while Sage, who kept Laidlaw between him and the madman, escaped with slight scratches. Now Laidlaw asks Sage, who saved his life at the expense of permanent injury to Laidlaw, to recompense him, and threatens if he does not do so to bring suit against him for $100,000 damages.

New York dispatches say that preliminary steps have been taken to bring action against the multi-millionaire, and unless a compromise is effected the case will immediately be taken into court. Sage has admitted that he deliberately held the broker's clerk between him and the menacing dynamiter, and that had he not done so he would certainly have lost his life. Under such circumstances Sage, who is many times a millionaire, ought to give Laidlaw at least $20,000, but Sage is miserly, and no generous thought ever finds lodgment in his head.

FALLING INTO LINE.

The Eureka Sentinel, Austin Reveille and Carson Appeal endorses the JOURNAL's proposition to make the free coinage of silver an issue in the next campaign in Nevada. Each and all copy approvingly the JOURNAL's suggestion that the people of the State act in concert and nominate Presidential electors and a Congressman who will not be bound by party ties or name, but will vote for the Presidential candidate and the measures that promise most for free coinage.

The Reveille notes the closing of the Candelaria mines because of the low price of silver, and says the Austin company, for the same reason, is not able to pay more than $3 per day.

The Carson Appeal says "if the Republicans nominate an anti-silver President this State ought to repudiate him, and if the Democrats nominate an anti silver President he should also be repudiated. The silver producing States should see that their position on the silver question is properly emphasized."

If the Nevada press voice the sentiment of the people, who are not seeking or expecting office, there will be no division of opinion as to the method of emphasizing their position on free coinage.

A resolution has been offered in the House of Representatives providing for the appointment of a committee of five to investigate the notorious retaining and promotion cases in the Pension Bureau which resulted in the removal of Commissioner Tanner, the office brokerage which got a son of Commissioner Raum in trouble and the favoritism by which claims of certain attorneys are given preference over those filed either by claimants or other attorneys.

Yesterday the one hundred and fifteenth anniversary of the battle of Trenton, New Jersey, was celebrated, and it was made the occasion for laying the corner stone of a monument to Washington and the continental troops who crossed the Delaware Christmas night and routed the Hessians.

Partial Destruction of an Insane Asylum By Fire.

PONTIAC, Mich., December 26.—A fire was discovered in the north wing of the Eastern Michigan Asylum, at 11 o'clock this morning. The flames spread with fearful rapidity. The occupants in the wing, 500 women, were turned loose. Screaming frantically with terror, the maniacs surged through the corridors, where the air was already filled with smoke. Some ran like wild animals, trampling their slower companions in their mad efforts to escape. Others were paralyzed with fear and stood rooted to the spot. The attendants performed deeds of heroism in their endeavors to rescue the helpless. They drove the insane women into the open air, and when some were once upon the outside they would break and rush for the building again. All, it is believed, were rescued alive. Nevertheless some say several women were seen at the windows after the patients were supposed to be all out. They had torn every vestige of clothing from their persons and were laughing in hideous glee at the approach of the flames. By 11.30 the entire north wing was wrapped in flames. The attendants had done all in their power and nothing was left but to try to save the rest of the asylum from the flames.

The spectators declare that they heard shrieks of anguish from the awful pyre, as of demented victims yielding their lives to the flames. But in the confusion it was impossible to distinguish the screams of frightened maniacs without, from the expiring outcry of the victims within, if there were any.

Great fear was felt lest the fire would get across to the south wing, where nearly 700 men were confined. Preparations were immediately made to remove the men if it became necessary. Inside the south wing, from the moment the flames came in sight, the wildest excitement prevailed. Seven hundred crazy men tore about their rooms yelling like demons.

Hundreds of people from Pontiac and vicinity joined in the fight with the flames at this juncture, and by the most stubborn resistance the wing was saved. Aside from this everything save the chapel, hospital and engine house was destroyed. A number of women who were in the section of the building first destroyed were severely burned on being removed, but prompt attention averted any serious consequences. James Lyon, Frederick Linton and another attendant whose name could not be learned had a narrow escape while fighting the flames on the fourth floor. Unknown to them the fire surrounded the spot at which the men were working and only when they found every avenue of escape except one very small window closed, did they think of their safety. When the flames were nearing them a long ladder was secured and the men were rescued just as they were on the point of falling back into the raging furnace.

A number of other narrow escapes are recorded, and but few of the attendants escaped without several burns or other injuries.

It is difficult to obtain accurate figures on the loss. One of the Board of Trustees estimates it at [not less than $500,000. The patients must, for several days at least, suffer great hardships. The kitchen was among the destroyed buildings, and some time must elapse before the culinary department can be established and the lunatics fed properly.

A Much Married Architect.

SACRAMENTO, December 26.—Charles Kerth, aged about 35 years, who has been employed some time past in an architect's office, has been missing since last Saturday. Since his departure it has been ascertained that he swindled a number of business men. He also induced a handsome young widow to accompany him, under promise of marriage. Since then it has also been learned that he abandoned a wife and three children in Los Angeles. While living there he passed under the name of Slavin. After leaving there he went to San Francisco, where he married under the name of Wilson.

A Destructive Fire.

CHATTANOOGA, December 26.—The loss by fire Saturday afternoon will reach half a million dollars. The total loss is about $600,000 with about $500,000 insurance. Damage to the Times building is slight, but the building is almost entirely cleaned out. Four of the leading drygoods houses were destroyed and the principal boot and shoe, crockery and furniture houses, two banks, public library and Chamber of Commerce rooms, Cobweb Club and a variety of small shops and offices. The property destroyed is on two of the most important corners in the city.

An Old Man Brutally Beaten.

STOCKTON, December 26.—An old man named Vinc at Glenn, who lives alone near New Hope, in the northwestern part of this county, was cruelly tortured last Wednesday night by two men, who sought to force him to disclose the hiding place of his money. The robbers wore masks and had a dark lantern. Knocking at Glenn's house they demanded his money. He told them all he had was $80, which was in his pocket. They said he had money concealed. He denied it and they beat him with pistols. The beating did not bring out the desired information, so they searched the house and yard, at resting times beating the old man. They remained on the premises from 8 o'clock at night until 3 o'clock the next morning, but found only the $80.

Glenn was left tied, but he managed the next day to attract the attention of men on the other side of the Mokiumne river, and they released him. Glenn is badly injured. He is a bachelor and is supposed to have money. Sheriff Cunningham is on the ground looking into the case.

A Heavy Purchase.

NEW YORK, December 26.—The purchase of the machinery and cordage works of John Good, located at Ravenswood and Brooklyn, has been affected by the National Cordage Company, in everything but the technical details. The works are valued at $2,000,000. The purchase of these works means the acquisition of some valuable patents and is another step towards the virtual control of the industry.

Cold Weather in Dakota.

HURON, S. D., December 26.—Yesterday the wind and snow storm abated. About midnight last night the mercury went down several degrees. It was twenty below zero at daylight, the lowest this Winter. It has been intensely cold all day but is more moderate to-night.

Baseball.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 26.—San Jose defeated the Portlands in a game to-day by a score of 5 to 3. The game was played in a light drizzling rain, but the few hundred people present witnessed one of the best games of the series.

Heavy Snow Storm.

SISSON, Cal., December 26.—It has been snowing since midnight accompanied by heavy winds and the snow is drifting badly. Snow plows are running and all trains are on time. Prospects of a heavy storm.

THEATRICAL.

First-Class Drama and Comedy at Popular Prices—A Chance for All.

The Opera House will be occupied December 31st and January 1st and 2nd by The Wilber Company in a repertoire of popular comedies and dramas with a change of play nightly. Their opening bill is "The Planter's Wife." The Laramie Boomerang says of their production of this piece:

"Maennerchor Hall was filled by as fine an audience last evening as ever honored the advent of any theatrical company in this city. It was the occasion of the debut here of the Wilber Company, who appeared in the thrilling play entitled 'The Planter's Wife.' At 8 o'clock the manager would have been warranted in posting the notice 'Standing room only' and when the curtain was rung up not only was every chair occupied but even the rails back of the last tier of seats were utilized by those who had neglected to reserve seats. 'The Planter's Wife' is a comedy drama that alternately moves one to laughter and tears. It was presented in first-class style. No company that has ever appeared here gave better satisfaction, nor was the appreciation of an audience ever more plainly manifested; It is a matter of regret the Boomerang is unable to devote the space to the company that it merits, for each actor appeared to be a star."

An Adirondack Term.

Healthy summer visitors to the Adirondacks frequently hear a term used by the natives in describing some of their city comrades in those delightful and health giving regions that greatly mystifies them at first. The people thus referred to technically are called "the "lungers," who are generally found to be pretty plentiful. "Lungers," pronounced "lung-ers," is a word that has not as yet got into general usage outside the range of the pine tree odors of the northernmost part of New York state; but its meaning and derivation are soon perceived and compel instant admiration for their simplicity and significance.

The "lungers" of the Adirondack regions are none other than the consumptives who resort thither for the benefit of their lung troubles, and who form a class by themselves in the eyes of the natives apart from the mere huntsmen and pleasure seekers. There is a sort of distinction in being a lunger that naught else can give, and though the word thus evolved by an admirable philological fitness seems to have a touch of rugged brutality in it at first sight, yet there is, after all, a kind of rough sympathy in it that is redolent of the soil.

As the pulmonary knowledge of the Adirondack people increases in minuteness, as it doubtless will, one may expect to hear the more detailed designations of "one lungers," "half lungers," etc., though this, it is believed, has not yet been observed.—New York Tribune.

Shut the Door.

You hear it constantly. People feel the draughts but they never think of the over-draughts upon nature which impair the digestive organs, and makes the use of Simmons' Liver Regulator necessary to effectually move the liver to action, and aid the digestive and assimilative powers of the body. The Regulator is the medicine for all disorders of the stomach. Try it and be convinced.

WHAT IS

SCROFULA

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which developes ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or the many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors;" which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can It Be CURED

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. Some of these cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"My daughter Mary was afflicted with scrofulous sore neck from the time she was 22 months old till she became six years of age. Lumps formed in her neck, and one of them after growing to the size of a pigeon's egg, became a running sore for over three years. We gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla, when the lump and all indications of scrofula entirely disappeared, and now she seems to be a healthy child." J. S. CARLILE, Nauright, N. J.

French Cookery Terms.

With the best of Anglo-Saxon intentions it is sometimes a little difficult to avoid the use of French terms in cookery or a bill of fare. Here are some that one encounters constantly: Releve is no dish in particular so far as the style of preparation is concerned, but answers to the word "remove," and consists of a dish replacing another, a doubling, so to speak, of the same course before going on to the next. It is therefore not unusual to find in a large dinner releve de potage, releve de rot, de gihier, etc. Entree is a made dish served after the fish or in its stead, where it is not obtainable, and preceding the rots or roast meat. After the latter comes the entremets, i. e., sweets or puddings.

The term hors d'euvre is the most difficult to particularize. When cold it comprises all side dishes which are really accessories to the meal. As such they can be and are eaten indifferently either before or after the soup; they are always placed on the table when it is being laid, and are often left there until the entrees have been served. They consist of radishes, olives, caviar, boutargue, all manner of salt and smoked fish, sardines, anchovies and a variety of dainties.

Hot hors d'euvre are almost unlimited; they are very acceptable at large dinners, and are generally served immediately after the soup and before the fish; they are often fried or baked, and are then usually such things as can be dished on a napkin, such as patties, rissoles, croquettes, vol-auvent, etc.; obviously, however, the series can be very much extended. At ordinary family dinners they are often served as and instead of an entree.—Providence Journal.

The Boy Who Discovered the "Saw By."

A few years ago a green country boy applied to the superintendent of a western railway for work, and, somewhat against the superintendent's wish, on account of the danger to life and limb attendant upon such occupation, was given a place as brakeman of a freight train.

On one of his first trips it happened that his train met another freight train at a station where the side track was not long enough to accommodate either of them. The conductors were debating which train should back up to a point where they could pass, when the new hand ventured to suggest that neither should back; that they could pass each other by means of the short side track if the thing was managed right.

The idea excited a good deal of laughter on the part of the old trainmen, but the boy stood his ground.

"Well, how would you go about it?" asked one of the conductors, confident that the lad would soon find himself against a stump.

The boy took up a stick and traced in the sand a diagram to illustrate his plan.

"Good gracious!" said the conductor, "I believe that will do it!"

And it did do it. Today every trainman in America probably knows how to "saw by" two long trains on a short side track, but it is not so generally known that the thing was never done until an inexperienced country boy, who is now the manager of a great railway line, worked out the problem for himself.—Washington Post.

An Expensive Infirmity.

I happened to be in a Broadway optician's store and saw a good looking, well dressed matron with a slip of a girl and a small boy, all of whom wore spectacles. The lady gave some directions about a pair of glasses, and when she had gone I asked the optician whether defective vision is hereditary.

"Rarely," said he. "That lady has four children, and all of them must wear glasses. The father's eyes are sound. The mother and her children are afflicted with astigmatism, a defect of the vision which is almost as rare as anything that afflicts the human eyes. It makes straight lines crooked and parallel lines fade into one. Special glasses must be made and ground to suit each person, and sometimes the respective eyes. They cost five dollars apiece too. So you see a large family of children with astigmatism costs a good deal of money in glasses alone. As the children grow up the range of vision changes, they break or lose their glasses oftener than adults, which increases the expense."—New York Herald.

The Shark Is a Slow Swimmer.

One ill service nature has done the shark, namely, that of placing a triangular fin on his back which acts as a danger signal and gives warning of his approach. Happily, the shark has not been gifted with sufficient sagacity to be aware of this peculiarity, for had he been so he would unquestionably abandon his habit of swimming close to the surface of the water, and would, in that case, be enabled to approach his victim unobserved. The shark is a slow swimmer for his size and strength.

Byron observes, "As darts the dolphin from the shark;" but Byron was a poet, and does not appear to have been a close observer of the habits of inhabitants of the water, or he would have known that a shark would have no more chance of catching a dolphin than a sheep would of overhauling a hare. A shark will keep up with a sailing ship, but it is as much as it can do to follow in the wake of a fast steamer, and a torpedo boat would be able to give it points.—London Standard.

Benzine Cleans Furs.

Nothing cleans soiled fur better than benzine. Actresses immerse their wigs in baths of this liquid with most excellent results. Buy the fluid at a paint store, where ten cents will fill a quart bottle, rather than at the druggist's, where the same amount will cost a quarter. Wash the fur until the benzine remains clear; the first two or three rounds will show fairly black. Be careful not to throw the fluid into any receptacle where by any chance a lighted match may follow.—New York Times.

A Crisis in Spain.

Queen of Spain—Moi gracia! The baby king has the stomach ache.

Lord Chamberlain (excitedly)—Woo-o! Call the secretary of the interior.—Good News.

The old "Shepherd's Kalendar" has this much to say about Christmas weather: "If the sun shine clear and bright on Christmas day it promiseth a peaceable year from clamors and strife, and foretells much plenty to ensue; but if the wind blow stormy toward sunset it betokeneth sickness in the spring and autumn quarters."

Fixed to the Rail by Electricity.

A very peculiar case of shocking by electricity occurred in Shelbyville recently. The victim was William Louden, who works at the Hotel Ray. In front of the hotel is an iron veranda running to the third story. An electric wire passes from the street into the room occupied by George Goulding in the hotel building. This evening when the electric light was turned on a heavy rain was falling. The electricity apparently had heavily charged the iron verands. Louden came out of the hotel and stood with his back against the iron railing. In an instant he was shocked and fixed in his position. His frightful yells attracted a big crowd. Charles Huffman ran out of his store, and, touching Louden, was also badly shocked. Louden finally fell on the sidewalk. The two men are badly burned.—Cor. Indianapolis Journal.

Made Things Lively.

Although the district school in Holloway, Conn., was tightly closed during the vacation, there was one caller that kicked up a rumpus. It was a thunderbolt, but where it entered can only be conjectured. During its short stay it passed through a wide range of studies, including spelling, reading, grammar, arithmetic and geography. Besides throwing new light upon the books treating on these subjects, it tore up the floor, splintered the desks and in its exciting exit carried off part of the window sash.—Yankee Blade.

A Piano Fraud.

Attention has recently been drawn in England to a species of fraud which is becoming somewhat common in this country. It appears that hundreds of pianos are annually brought over from Germany for the purpose only of being sold by auction. Occasionally they bear real names, and often purely apocryphal ones. But many of them boast name labels, which closely resemble those of eminent manufacturers. The pianos are usually shipped without names and the name labels are put on in London. There are makers in Berlin and other German cities who will ship any number of shoddy pianos without names at about eighty dollars each, and with them will send a gross or more of assorted name labels, so that the dealers, or, for the matter of that, the purchaser can choose any maker's name he pleases.

Some eminent German firms who have agencies in London now take steps to prevent any imitation of their name. But unless the firms themselves take action the pianos go to the docks by dozens, and nobody seems to care that a fraud is being permitted upon the public. It is satisfactory to know that the piano manufacturers of this country are becoming alive to the necessity of taking steps to prevent this injury to the public and to themselves. Not long ago a well known New York firm had occasion to take action in a case of this kind, and had the satisfaction of securing a verdict calculated to effectually prevent a repetition of the offense.—Chicago News.

Too Late.

"I say, old fellow, here are the five shillings I borrowed of you last week!"

"Thanks, dear boy! I had forgotten all about it."

"Hang it, old man, why didn't you tell me that five minutes ago?"—London Tit-Bits.

Don't Rub Off the Enamel

Of the teeth with gritty preparations. The teeth are too valuable to be trifled with. When gone you must have false ones or "gum" yourself through life. Use SOZODONT, which contains no grit. It cleanses the mouth and vitalizes the secretions.

WEAK AND UNDEVELOPED

Conditions of the human form successfully treated to develop, strengthen, enlarge all weak, stunted, undeveloped, feeble organs and parts of the body which have lost or never attained a proper and natural size, due to ill health, abuse, excesses, or unknown causes. There is one method and only one, by which this may be accomplished. Increased flow of blood to any part, produced by simple apparatus acting automatically, creates new tissue, tone and vigor by the same natural laws as the increase of size and strength of muscle. Don't be prejudiced because little quacks propose by silly means to do the same. INVESTIGATE. There's no trap back of our offers. Our pay will come when the public knows clearly science from fraud. Write us for instructions, full description, proofs, references, etc. All sent you in plain sealed letter without cost of any kind.
